

Women in California Archaeology

SCA's new committee, Women in California Archaeology (WCA), was formed in Spring 2012 to provide a venue for discussion related to women archaeologists in California. The WCA will work to provide support and mentorship to women practicing archaeology in the state through individual and/or group interactions. The WCA has a core committee and members. Any member of the SCA can become a member of the WCA, including men. WCA is about supporting women in the profession. The Core Committee includes women from different venues; academic institutions, CRM firms, federal and state agencies, Native American groups, and museums.

WCA Core Committee:

- Seetha Reddy, Statistical Research, Inc. (Lead)
- Jennifer Darcangelo, Pacific Gas and Electric Company
- Jennifer Farquhar, Albion Environmental, Inc.
- Lynn Gamble, University of California, Santa Barbara
- Diane Gifford-Gonzalez, University of California, Santa Cruz
- Kristina Gill, University of California, Santa Barbara
- Sandra Hollimon, Santa Rosa Junior College
- Anmarie Medin, Caltrans Headquarters-Sacramento
- Vanessa Mirro, Applied Earthworks, Inc.
- Patricia Garcia-Tuck, THPO Agua Caliente Band of Cahuilla Indians

We encourage you to complete an initial online survey which will help the WCA committee obtain input from SCA members on types of support we can provide through mentorship, public workshops and other means. Please feel free to contact any of the WCA members or Dr. Seetha Reddy.
