POSITION STATEMENTS

PRESIDENT

TONY OVERLY

Environmental Science Associates

Education; professional background, and research interests

I obtained my BA in Anthropology (Archaeology concentration) from the University of California, Davis and my MA in Anthropology (Archaeology concentration), California State University, Sacramento. Early on I worked as a teaching assistant and instructor for field schools and lab classes at both universities and on a project-by-project basis with many cultural resource management companies. My first permanent job was as a staff archaeologist at the Archaeological Research Center at CSUS where we had a twin mission of training and research in an applied archaeology setting. Later, I moved into private consulting and then to several state and federal agency archaeology jobs. In 2021 I returned to the private sector at Environmental Science Associates, an employee-owned firm headquartered in California, where I am the cultural resources practice lead. My research interests vary, but I have always had an interest in the interplay between methods and results, because how a question is asked dictates what can be learned.

Position Statement

Being an archaeologist is a humbling pursuit. The effort to constantly learn and grow to stay successful at archaeology has been the most rewarding and challenging aspect of this career. The Society for California Archaeology has had a profound positive impact on my effort to become a good archaeologist (and it's been a lot of fun too!). I have contributed to the Society as a presenter in general sessions, chairperson for organized symposia and poster sessions, and via jobs that allowed me to fund general SCA grants, Project Archaeology education curriculum, scholarship/research grants, and events at meetings.

I'm at a place in life where I can contribute more time to the SCA now and am asking for your vote for president to do that. As specified in the bylaws, I would work diligently as president to exercise general supervision over the affairs of the Society so that together we advance the mission as a nonprofit scientific and educational organization. If elected, there are three broad themes where I would work with the board, committees, liaisons, the general membership, and the public.

Equity Improvements are being made but archaeologists have an uneven track record working with native communities and providing a forum for diverse perspectives. The SCA must continue to support committees, like the Native American Programs Committee, the Coalition for Diversity in California Archaeology, and Women in California Archaeology but we must also seek new ways to collaborate so that more voices have an opportunity to shape how archaeologists study the past.

Education There are too many barriers for entry level archaeologists to acquire practical experience. Field schools in California are now uncommon and systemically exclude people of lesser financial means due to excessive cost. The SCA can work with universities, private industry, agencies, and others to ensure there is a varied stream of practical archaeological training readily available at all career stages.

Engagement The SCA advocates for the archaeological record in California, but we must do more on this front. Our collective voice is in danger of being unheard as only one of 140,000 non-profit organizations in the state. The Society mission directs us to "increase public appreciation and support for archaeology". Our cadre of volunteers support Archaeology Month, engage in legislation, work on publicity, and other outreach efforts are all commended for outstanding contributions but heritage resource issues are becoming more complex and the Society must enhance our capacity in this regard. With that I respectfully request your vote for president of the SCA this election.

Southern Vice-President

RICHARD GUTTENBERG
John Minch and Associates

Education; Professional Background, and Research Interests

I have 25 years of professional experience in southern California archaeology. My background is primarily coastal prehistoric archaeology, history, ethnohistory, and GIS analysis. I earned my undergraduate degree in anthropology at California State University Long Beach. I spent the next 12 years working in CRM on a wide variety of archaeological investigations across southern California. In 2009 I entered the graduate program at Cal State Los Angeles where I had the opportunity to work extensively on San Nicolas Island. I worked full-time managing my firm during my graduate studies and earned my MA in 2014. My research interests involve prehistoric chronologies of northern Baja and documenting evidence of coastal erosion and impact to archaeological sites in the Upper Gulf of California. I currently serve on the American Cultural Resources Association (ACRA) Continuing Education Committee where we provide online learning opportunities for cultural resource practitioners with all levels of experience. I have spent my entire career working for a small, independent firm. This experience provides me with valuable insight on the inner workings of a small consultancy, as well as the merits and disadvantages of small businesses in our industry.

Position Statement

I decided to run for an SCA Board position because I feel that my research background and business experience allow me to make some distinctive contributions to the society. My current involvement in a bi-national research collaboration with the Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia (INAH) in northern Baja has inspired me to serve a greater role in reaching out and forming more collective partnerships with our southern neighbors. To better understand the archaeology and ethnohistory of the borderlands we should engage in more data sharing and conversation with our colleagues in Mexico. As Southern Vice President I would work to enhance our relationship with INAH and assist in hosting a Southern Data Sharing Meeting that features topics of shared interests with INAH. As a small business operator, I have grave concerns for the future of small businesses in our industry. I firmly believe that small businesses can provide the best opportunity for young people to gain first-hand experience and develop the skills necessary for advancement in our field. In my own experience as an employer, I have seen the value of developing employees from within and providing equal opportunities for growth and promotion. As a Board member I will endorse holding annual round table or panel discussions for small business operators and consultants. SCA can play a greater role in providing a forum for content and outreach directed towards small firms, especially those that seek to not only employ young people from all backgrounds but offer them training and opportunity for advancement into managerial positions. Small firms offer more than just employment opportunities for young people entering the field, they may provide the training and mentorship necessary for a lasting and successful career in archaeology.

I have been an active member of SCA for over 15 years. If elected as Southern Vice President, I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to serve my friends and colleagues in Southern California. Thank you for your consideration.

Treasurer

RISA DEGEORGEY

Alta Archaeological Consulting LLC

Education; professional background, and research interests:

Thank you for providing me this opportunity to introduce myself to the members of the Society for California Archaeology (SCA). My formal education began with earning a B.S. in Anthropology from UC Davis. After a few years of working for cultural resource management (CRM) firms in northern California, I decided to continue my education with the intention of opening and managing my own CRM business. Through the Sonoma State Interdisciplinary Studies Program, I created a degree that focused on business development, business management, land use planning law, and CRM. In 2006, I earned an MA entitled Cultural Resource Planning, Policy, and Procedure. While in graduate school, I served on the SCA Board as Secretary. My 24 year professional career includes forming three successful businesses and one thriving non-profit. I am currently the majority owner, CEO and CFO of Alta Archaeological Consulting (ALTA). I also serve as Chairperson of the Board for Alta Heritage Foundation. In addition to practicing CRM, I am continually researching disaster response, safety, organizational management, financial strategies, business development, and operation solutions to improve my business and the well-being of ALTA personnel.

Position Statement:

The SCA founders and volunteers have created a well-established, thriving organization that continues to foster the understanding, interpretation, and conservation of California heritage. As an archaeologist and businessperson who seeks to support the SCA mission, I am running for Treasurer of the SCA. During my previous service with the SCA, I discovered the Board's duties are multifaceted and dynamic. In addition to the position specific duties stated in the SCA bylaws, there may be on-going challenges, legacy program issues, and lengthy time critical discussions. After careful consideration of the position requirements, I believe I can allot the time required. The experience I have gained from archaeology, cultural resource management, financial administration, business management, and running a non-profit will help me be an effective Board Member and Treasurer. I look forward to working with the other SCA Board Members toward furthering the SCA's stability and growth.

Thank you for considering me to fill the SCA Treasurer position.

PLENARY SESSION

The meeting will kick off on Friday morning, March 17, with the President's Plenary. The SCA's mission statement says the organization is dedicated to the research, understanding, interpretation, and conservation of the heritage of California, but what does that mean in practice? We spend lots of time on fieldwork and writing reports, but how much of that actually gets beyond the gray literature out to a larger audience? If we truly want to build appreciation for the heritage of California, we need to engage with the general public to explain how archaeology is more than "being Indiana Jones" or finding gold. The last several national presidential elections have resulted in shifts in federal policies that have had major implications for cultural resources. Building interest in archaeology has the potential to carry forward into building political support for preservation. But how does the average archaeologist connect with audiences? The plenary session brings together those with skills in connecting with varied audiences, from children to racial minorities to differently abled people. The speakers will share stories of how they connect to lay audiences to build appreciation for California's heritage. Hopefully their examples will inspire SCA members to expand their own interpretation efforts and tap into their creativity.

SILENT AUCTION FUNDRAISER WITH MOCKTAIL, BEER, AND WINE TASTING

The 2023 Reception/Silent Auction and mocktail, beer, and wine tasting event will be held at the Peony Seafood Restaurant in Oakland's historic Chinatown. Peony is just two block down from the hotel, which means no bus ride and more time to spend with our friends and colleagues. Dinner will feature an amazing Chinese Banquet.

As you taste and sip your way through the offerings, there will be many items up for auction, as usual. Years past have featured a surfboard, rare maps, and handmade jewelry; the silent auction always has something for everyone. As usual, the fabulous CRM firms that are a part of our community will host a variety of tasty beverages for your enjoyment. The Silent Auction is always a popular event and offers wonderful opportunities to catch up with old friends and meet new ones. We encourage you to buy your ticket early - this event often sells out!

ANNUAL AWARDS BANQUET

The Elem Xemfo (Elem Dance Group) from Elem Pomo Nation in Lake County will provide a dance demonstration at the beginning of the banquet. Dance leader Robert Geary has coordinated with his troop and they are excited about this opportunity. One might question the appropriateness of having what is considered by many to be a sacred activity at a secular event. Mr. Geary notes that the Elem Dance Group dances at a wide variety of venues and has specific dances appropriate for secular events. The traditional, spiritual dances are reserved for other situations. To be clear, this is not a performance for entertainment, but rather a demonstration to educate the audience on how the Elem dancers have retained their cultural traditions in the face of much difficulty. The music and dance are an expression of cultural resilience; their willingness to share this with us should not be undervalued.

Out of respect for our Pomo guests, the SCA Board asks everyone to refrain from drinking alcohol while the dancers are on stage. The Marriott's banquet bar will be closed during the demonstration. Members will likely arrive with cocktails in hand, and we will request they put down any alcoholic drinks for the 30-45 minute demonstration. The emphasis is on voluntary cooperation out of respect for the SCA's invited guests. Those who cannot maintain respectful behavior are welcome to excuse themselves. Awards presentations will follow the banquet. All meeting attendees are welcome to view the demonstration and awards, but we hope you'll join us for the banquet dinner.

This hands-on workshop is designed to help archaeologists and monitors get acquainted with basic osteological identification methods. The workshop will use comparative materials to focus on identifying human versus non-human bone. This course is a basic introduction to the skeleton and features that can be useful for differentiating human from other mammal bone. Pre-registration is required.

CONST1: Construction Compliance Monitoring

Instructors: Dustin Swenson, Tony Overly, Monica Strauss, and Sara Dietler

In the face of rapid growth and infrastructure development expected in the next several years, archaeological monitoring will be a vital compliance tool to ensure adequate site protection. This workshop provides a broad overview of the construction compliance workspace to understand the different aspects of complex, multi-subcontractor construction projects and how archaeological monitoring fits into the general compliance framework. It is intended to be equally valuable for entry-level monitors and others with construction project experience. The workshop is not a technical “how to identify archaeological features in the field” but rather covers practical solutions and problem-solving for field personnel in typical compliance situations through formal presentations, real world scenarios, and group discussion. ESA archaeologists and environmental compliance experts will guide you through how archaeological monitoring is used within the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act. Additional topics include what kinds of communication can be expected on construction sites, what challenges or hazards may be encountered, and how archaeological monitoring fills an integral role and last line of defense of resource protection. Pre-registration is required.

Maximum enrollment: 30	8:30 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.	Cost: $30.00

MAR1: Underwater Cultural Heritage Resources Awareness

Instructor: Trisha Dodd

Cultural resource managers, land managers, and archaeologists are often tasked with managing, interpreting, and reviewing archaeological assessments for submerged cultural resources. This workshop is designed to introduce non-specialists to issues specific to underwater archaeology. Participants will learn about different types of underwater cultural heritage (UCH) sites and the techniques used in Phase I and II equivalent surveys. Participants will also be made aware of the 2001 UNESCO Convention on the protection of underwater cultural heritage. This workshop is not intended to teach participants how to do underwater archaeology but will introduce different investigative techniques, international best practices, and existing legislation. The purpose of this workshop is to assist non-specialists in recognizing the potential for UCH resources in their areas of impact, budgeting for UCH resource investigations, reviewing UCH resource assessments, developing interpretive strategies, and providing sufficient background information to assist in making informed decisions regarding UCH resources.

- II. Introduction to Maritime Archaeology
- III. U.S and California Legislation
- IV. Introduction to Underwater Survey

PLA1: Historic Plastics in the Archaeological Record

Instructors: Kimberly Wooten and Julia Huddleson

As ubiquitous as plastic may seem in the archaeological record, plastic artifacts are quickly moving into the period of historic significance. A basic understanding of this material type will be increasingly important for recording and evaluating archaeological sites. This workshop will give an overview of the history and development of plastics, followed by hands-on training with plastic artifacts from the early 1900s through to the modern era with a focus on domestic sites. In many ways plastic can be seen as a hallmark of the Anthropocene, and the last 30 minutes will be a guided discussion of contemporary plastic archaeology, with time focused on individual solutions to the current plastic pollution crisis. A thumb drive of plastic reference materials will be included with the workshop fee.

Maximum enrollment: 20	9:00 a.m. – 11:00 a.m.	Cost: $30.00

OBSI: Obsidian Hydration Dating Workshop

Instructor: Alexander (Sandy) Rogers, MA, MS, RPA

The goal of this workshop is to provide insight into the theory and methods of obsidian hydration dating (OHD). It should help enable the archaeologist to perform OHD analyses, and enable the manager to ask the right questions. The workshop will cover the basic principles of obsidian hydration and the models employed in dating; how to develop an appropriate effective hydration temperature (EHT); various methods of computing a hydration rate; guidelines for data analysis; and numerous cautions. An Excel spreadsheet with numerical models for conducting an OHD analysis will be provided. Mathematics will be kept to a minimum, but cannot be avoided entirely. Electronic copies of key references will be provided. Pre-registration is required.

SUNDAY FIELD TRIPS

USS Hornet, Sea, Air, and Space Museum Tour of the Sea plus a Behind the Scenes Collections Tour

The USS Hornet is a Smithsonian affiliated museum located aboard a historic WWII warship and aircraft carrier in Alameda. The ship served for 18 months during WWII and accomplished an impressive number of combat missions. In the 1960's the ship was sent to retrieve the Apollo 11 and 12 Moon Landing Pacific Ocean capsule landings. Today the museum manages WWII naval collections, space program collections, and serves as a living history education museum for the public.

We have arranged for this docent-led tour to begin with a special behind the scenes collections visit not normally offered to the public, followed by an exploration of the ship and its exciting history. There is plenty of free parking at the facility and a café on ship where food can be purchased a la carte after the tour, if desired. Tip is not included in pricing below. Tour cap is set at 25 total participants. Closed toe shoes are required and a flashlight is recommended. Ship spaces can be narrow so keep bags on the small side.

Tour duration: 2 hours
Start time: 10 am- 12 noon
Price: Coming Soon

Coyote Hills Tour

The East Bay area's original inhabitants were the ancestors of the Ohlone Indians, whose skills enabled them to live well off the land's natural bounty. Before contact, tule elk roamed the land, condors soared overhead, and sea otters and fish were abundant in the Bay. At Coyote Hills Regional Park, some of this rich wetland is preserved, along with 2,000-year old Tuibun Ohlone Indian shellmound sites with fascinating archaeological resources.

Coyote Hills Regional Park was dedicated in 1967. The park comprises 1,266 acres of marshland and rolling grassland covered hills. The park's rich and varied history also includes Mission and settler ranching and farming activities, salt production, a duck hunting club, a dairy, rock quarrying, a military NIKE missile site, and a biosonar research facility.

Tour participants will be given a docent guided tour of the park's historic areas, learn about the first inhabitants, the unique ecology, and the history of the region.

Limited to 25.

STUDENT EVENTS

Let's Do Lunch

Let's Do Lunch pairs students with more senior members for lunch, providing students an opportunity to meet an archaeological professional and ask questions about obtaining a job, building a resume, or getting into graduate school. Pairing people at random gives students a chance to meet professionals who they might not otherwise encounter at the meeting. This also gives the senior members of our Society a chance to mentor the next generation of California archaeologists and pass along knowledge about how to be successful in the field.

Let's Do Lunch will be held on Saturday, March 18, at 12:00 p.m. (meet in the registration area at 11:45 a.m.). The SCA will arrange for a venue for the luncheon. The regular member is asked to "treat" the student member by buying them lunch. While regular members will be paired with a single student, the venue will probably seat multiple pairs together, so there will be opportunities for students to chat with more than one professional. This is a wonderful event, so please check the box in your registration packet to participate in Let's Do Lunch. Buying lunch for a student member is the best investment in the future of the SCA and can make a real difference!

Student Mixer

The Student Affairs Committee has organized its annual Student Mixer at the SCA Annual Meeting. The goal of the Student Mixer is to provide students an opportunity to network with professionals and academics in the California archaeological community. Students, please come and take advantage of the years of collective wisdom from our group of professionals participating in this year's event. Come prepared to mix, mingle, and ask questions about getting archaeology jobs or internships in California, advice for creating more competitive resumes, and suggestions for getting into graduate programs.

The student mixer will be held from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. prior to the Annual Banquet on Saturday, March 18, in conjunction with a cash bar. Come one, come all to mix and mingle and provide advice to the next generation of California archaeologists.

Ethics Bowl

The second annual Ethics Bowl competition will be held Saturday, March 18, 2022. Organized similarly to the SAA Ethics Bowl, held at their annual meetings for several years now, teams of three to five graduate and/or undergraduate students from various universities and colleges will compete against each other in a series of rounds. The winning team moves on to the next round until there is a final winning team. The winning team takes home a traveling trophy to display in the institution's department for the next year and their team/school name is engraved onto the trophy. Additional prizes will be awarded to winning team members. Full description HERE or contact Brendon Greenaway for more information, brendon@scahome.org.

DONATE TO THE SILENT AUCTION FUNDRAISER

The Silent Auction is an important fundraising event for the SCA. The success of this event is completely dependent on the generosity of all members of our Society. We encourage you to think outside the box this year to help us get donations and make this the most successful auction ever! Do you have a timeshare that you might be willing to donate a week of? A friend who owns a winery that might be willing to donate a gift basket or wine tasting? A local business you frequent that might donate a gift basket or certificate? A behind-the-scenes tour at a museum or other venue? Theme park tickets? Individual members and businesses are encouraged to donate any items which will help raise money for the SCA, so please branch out this year and ask the businesses you frequent, work for, or have other connections with to donate.

Books!!

The SCA no longer accepts books as Silent Auction donations, but we do accept books about anthropology, archaeology, and relevant scientific topics. Books will be offered for sale in the bookroom, and all proceeds become a donation to the SCA. Check back often because new books arrive daily! If you have books to donate, please contact Shelly Davis-King at shellydk@frontiernet.net or Tracey Booth at office@scahome.org.

For businesses, the Silent Auction represents a great opportunity to let all attendees know that your firm is an active, generous participant within the archaeological community. Don't forget, your donations are tax deductible, and with recent tax changes this is all the more important! We need YOU to help us get donations to continue to support the SCA and these meetings and events that we all enjoy. We are asking firms that donate beer or wine to the Silent Auction to also consider providing a non-alcoholic option, such as mocktails, bottled water, or soda, and to provide a few food accompaniments on their tables, such as desserts.

General questions regarding the Silent Auction should be directed to the Business Office at office@scahome.org or (530) 342-3537. Questions regarding the donation of goods should be directed to Jennifer Barbee (jbarbee@appliedearthworks.com) and beverage donations to Kristina Roper (kroper3r@gmail.com). We ask that businesses, institutions, and individual members support this fun and fabulous event.

CHILDCARE

The annual SCA conference is arguably the most important forum for California archaeologists to engage with other professionals, communicate new information, and forge new collaborations. Yet parents of young children find it extremely difficult to remain engaged in conference activities, and the costs of childcare (especially when combined with regular attendance costs) are often prohibitive. Created by the WCA, the SCA will be sponsoring on-site daycare at the annual meeting. There is a nominal fee ($10-$20/day and Pre-registration is required.

The WCA ensures a licensed provider, an adequate number of caretakers, and a safe environment. The care-center will take place in a hotel suite with a separate room for naps, a clean bathroom, and a refrigerator for storing milk/snacks.

The sign-up sheet is a non-committal survey to determine how many caretakers we will need to hire. Once signed-up, a follow-up email will be sent to collect more specifics about your care needs. This is a pre-registration event as we will not be able to accommodate drop-ins.
